Hong Kong's Company Re-domiciliation Regime effective on 23 May 2025

Hong Kong's company re-domiciliation regime, effective on 23 May 2025,¹ provides a straightforward process for non-Hong Kong companies meeting certain criteria to re-domicile to Hong Kong. The regime is set out in the Hong Kong Companies Ordinance (Cap. 622) (Companies Ordinance) as amended by the Companies \(Amendment\) \(No.2\) Ordinance 2025 (2025 Companies Amendment Ordinance). The Companies \(Amendment\) \(No.2\) Bill 2024 (2024 Amendment Bill) was passed by the Hong Kong Legislative Council (LegCo) on 14 May 2025 and the 2025 Companies Amendment Ordinance was gazetted on 23 May 2025. Hong Kong's Companies Registry started accepting re-domiciliation applications from 23 May 2025. It has also launched a dedicated section on the Companies Registry website² with guidance on how to apply, and has modified its Integrated Companies Registry Information System to facilitate application processing.

The Hong Kong company re-domiciliation regime enables non-Hong Kong companies meeting certain criteria related to corporate background, financial solvency, integrity, and protections for members and creditors, to relocate their legal domicile to Hong Kong, while retaining their corporate identity and operational continuity, allowing them to preserve their contractual and legal obligations incurred prior to the re-domiciliation. Post-re-domiciliation, re-domiciled entities will be treated as Hong Kong-incorporated companies under the Companies Ordinance with the same rights, obligations and filing requirements, as companies originally incorporated in Hong Kong.

To address potential double taxation issues, the Hong Kong government will provide unilateral tax credits for profits taxed both in Hong Kong and overseas jurisdictions, in alignment with Hong Kong's territorial tax system. Secretary for Financial Services and the Treasury, Mr. Christopher Hui, stated that in introducing the re-domiciliation regime, the Hong Kong Government's aims to attract foreign enterprises, particularly those with significant regional operations, in the hope of stimulating investment, job creation and demand for Hong Kong professional services.

Originally gazetted on 20 December 2024,³ the 2024 Amendment Bill was introduced to LegCo for its first reading on 8 January 2025. In March 2025, the Hong Kong Government published a Summary of Views of Submissions and the Administration's Responses (Hong Kong Administrative Response) to submissions provided by various organisations with regard to the proposed company re-domiciliation regime and the 2024 Amendment Bill. The Hong Kong Government also proposed Committee Stage Amendments to the 2024 Amendment Bill which were all adopted. The 2024 Amendment Bill (with amendments) was passed by the LegCo on 14 May 2025 after its second and third readings and the 2025 Companies Amendment Ordinance was gazetted on 23 May 2025.

The Hong Kong company re-domiciliation regime

The parameters and requirements of the Hong Kong company re-domiciliation regime are set out in Part 17A and Schedules 6A, 6B and 6C Companies Ordinance. As stated in the Hong Kong Administrative Response, the Companies Registry has published a "Guide on Company Re-domiciliation" to provide information and guidance as to the requirements under the Hong Kong company re-domiciliation regime, the application procedures, the fees and the obligations and responsibilities of companies post-re-domiciliation.

C. Application fees and registration fees

The Companies (Fees) Regulation sets out the fees payable upon submitting the re-domiciliation application (HK$1,030 for electronic application and HK$1,145 for paper application) and upon registration as a re-domiciled company in Hong Kong (HK$5,020 for electronic form and HK$5,580 for paper form). Consequential changes are also made to other fees payable under the Companies Ordinance.

D. Approval of the Hong Kong company re-domiciliation application

Under section 820C Companies Ordinance, the Registrar will refuse a re-domiciliation application if the applicant fails to comply with section 820B and if it is of the view that the re-domiciled company will be used to serve a purpose that is illegitimate or contrary to public interest.

If the Registrar approves the non-Hong Kong company re-domiciliation application, the Registrar will register the company as a registered re-domiciled company and issue a certificate of re-domiciliation. The re-domiciliation to Hong Kong will take effect on the date of issue of the re-domiciliation certificate.

E. Legal effect of re-domiciliation to Hong Kong

Sections 2(5A) and 820D Companies Ordinance provide that a company re-domiciled to Hong Kong will be considered a company incorporated in Hong Kong from the date of re-domiciliation, and that all provisions applicable to a Hong Kong- incorporated company will apply equally to a re-domiciled company. The re-domiciliation procedure will not create a new legal identity and all contracts, resolutions, functions, property, rights, privileges, obligations or liabilities that are owned, acquired or incurred by the company before re-domiciliation will be unaffected after re-domiciliation. Legal proceedings initiated, or that could have been initiated, by or against the overseas company before re-domiciliation will remain effective.

With respect to non-Hong Kong companies registered under Part 16 Companies Ordinance that apply to be re-domiciled to Hong Kong, upon re-domiciliation, their status as a registered non-Hong Kong company will cease to be effective (Section 820D(5) Companies Ordinance). However, registered non-Hong Kong companies will be allowed to retain their company names and business registration numbers.

Other consequential amendments to the Companies Ordinance

As mentioned above, companies that have successfully re-domiciled to Hong Kong will be treated as companies incorporated in Hong Kong. Accordingly, consequential amendments have been made to other sections of the Companies Ordinance and other subsidiary legislation to the Companies Ordinance to give effect to the Hong Kong company re-domiciliation regime. In particular, section 2(5A) Companies Ordinance acts as the general deeming provision confirming this position. Amendments has also been made to the definition section to expand the definition of “company” and to cover re-domiciled companies, and to explicitly exclude re-domiciled companies from “non-Hong Kong companies”. Amendments has also been made to clarify that provisions that apply to “a company incorporated in Hong Kong” will be equally applicable to re-domiciled companies. Examples of other amendments also include expanding the provisions referencing the “date of incorporation” to include the date of re-domiciliation, and the “certificate of incorporation” to include the “certificate of re-domiciliation”.

Other consequential amendments to other Hong Kong legislation

Amendments applicable to insurance companies and authorised institutions

As set out in the Consultation Conclusions published by the Hong Kong's Financial Services and Treasury Bureau \(FSTB\) in July 2024 and in the LegCo Brief dated 18 December 2024, the FSTB received feedback from stakeholders in the insurance and financial sectors expressing their interest in inward company re-domiciliation. The FSTB noted that some overseas companies carrying on activities regulated by Hong Kong financial regulators are interested in re-domiciling to Hong Kong. Currently, certain requirements under the Hong Kong insurance and banking regulatory regimes are slightly different for non-Hong Kong incorporated companies and Hong Kong incorporated companies. Accordingly, amendments to the Insurance Ordinance (Chapter 41 of the laws of Hong Kong) (Insurance Ordinance) and Banking Ordinance (Chapter 155 of the laws of Hong Kong) (Banking Ordinance) has been made to specify that companies registered by the Companies Registrar as a re-domiciled Hong Kong company and has completed the deregistration procedures in its original domicile will be treated as a Hong Kong-incorporated company. The LegCo Brief explained that setting the timing as the time when the company has deregistered, instead of when the company receives the certificate of re-domiciliation, will minimise complications where a company later fails to deregister and its re-domiciliation status is revoked by the Companies Registry.

In particular, section 3BA(1) Insurance Ordinance states that a re-domiciled insurer is an insurer authorised under the Insurance Ordinance that is originally incorporated outside Hong Kong and subsequently becomes a re-domiciled company and is deregistered in its place of incorporation. Section 3BA(3) also requires non-Hong Kong authorised insurers carrying out insurance activities regulated under the Insurance Ordinance that intend to apply for re-domiciliation to Hong Kong to apply for a letter of no-objection from the Insurance Authority before submitting the re-domiciliation application.

Similarly, Part VIIA Banking Ordinance specifies requirements for approval of the re-domiciliation of authorised institutions and their holding companies and approved money brokers. These companies that wish to re-domicile to Hong Kong must apply for prior approval from the Monetary Authority under sections 43C and 43D Banking Ordinance. The Monetary Authority has the discretion to decide on an application and has the power to request more information from the relevant company. After the certificate of re-domiciliation is issued, the company must also notify the Monetary Authority and submit a copy of the certificate of re-domiciliation to the Monetary Authority as soon as practicable (Section 43F Banking Ordinance). After the company completes all deregistration procedures in its original domicile, the company is also required to notify the Monetary Authority and submit documentary evidence of its deregistration to the Monetary Authority as soon as practicable (Section 43G Banking Ordinance). Section 60AA Banking Ordinance also clarifies that certain requirements relating to the submission of the audited balance sheets of authorised institutions incorporated outside Hong Kong for periods before the re-domiciliation will still apply to the re-domiciled company for the current financial year.

Tax treatment of re-domiciled companies

Section 820D(4) Companies Ordinance clarifies that the re-domiciliation itself does not amount to a transfer of assets or change of beneficial ownership of assets. The re-domiciliation process itself will not impact the company's tax obligations in its original domicile or Hong Kong. For example, the company will still be subject to profits tax for profits arising in or derived from Hong Kong from business activities conducted in Hong Kong. Section 2(9) Inland Revenue Ordinance (Chapter 112 of the laws of Hong Kong) (Inland Revenue Ordinance) specifies that all references in the Ordinance to a company established or incorporated in Hong Kong includes a company re-domiciled to Hong Kong. This may impact tax residency and the application of tax treaties signed between Hong Kong and other jurisdictions, for example under the amendments, re-domiciled companies may be treated as a resident of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region under the Avoidance of Double Taxation Agreements or Arrangements (CDTA).⁶

Schedule 17L Inland Revenue Ordinance sets out the tax treatment applicable to re-domiciled companies. Provisions under this Schedule mainly explain the respective tax treatment, deductions and allowances with respect to certain types of expenses, expenditure, cost of trading stock incurred before and after re-domiciliation and those incurred during specific tax accounting periods. Sections 12 to 14 of Schedule 17L also provide for unilateral tax credits for re-domiciled companies to eliminate double taxation. Under these sections, allowance by way of credit (subject to limitations) will be available to a company which is liable to pay tax in its original domicile that is of a similar nature to Hong Kong profits tax for the re-domiciliation year or any subsequent year of assessment due to the exit.

Amendments to other Hong Kong legislation

Consequential amendments has also been made to other ordinances and legislation in Hong Kong where references are made to companies or entities incorporated in Hong Kong to include re-domiciled companies.

Other than amendments to the Ordinances (and their respective subsidiary legislation) specifically addressed above, amendments has also been made to the following:

- Trustee Ordinance (Chapter 29)
- Companies (Winding Up and Miscellaneous Provisions) Ordinance (Chapter 32) and its subsidiary legislation
- Subsidiary legislation of the Insurance Ordinance
- Subsidiary legislation of the Banking Ordinance
- Business Registration Regulations (Chapter 310A)
